Her four-year commitment to the project culminated this week when she was awarded her PhD in Chemical and Materials Engineering from the University of Auckland.

"It has been a long journey and it is so rewarding to have a definitive end and an occasion that I can celebrate with family and friends, says Emma.

"I can definitely see growth and change in myself, and I look forward to applying the skills I developed throughout the research journey to my future

A green poster for Te Reo Māori Kūki 'Airani. It features a white box with the date '31 > 06 JUL AUG'. Below the date, it says 'Te Reo Māori Kūki 'Airani' and 'Cook Islands Language Week 2022'. At the bottom, there is a logo for 'Te Ao Pacific Peoples' and the Māori phrase 'Ātūtu'ia au ki te Oneone o tōku 'Uti Tupuna' with the English translation 'CONNECT ME TO THE SOILS OF MY ANCESTORS'.
